

C-Band Timeline

Plans to make C-Band spectrum available for wireless use are more than 17 years old, and countries around the world safely use this spectrum for 5G networks today. The FAA only recently began raising concerns or gathering data from the aviation industry, years after the domestic processes began. The following identifies some of the key milestones that the FAA ignored.

